LLB (Hons) Bachelor of Laws (Part-time)

The Single Honours LLB Degree in Law, taught at Worcester and awarded by Staffordshire University, will provide you with a study of law which meets the requirements of the legal profession (the Solicitors Regulation Authority and the Bar Standards Board) to provide the academic stage of training.

COURSE OVERVIEW

The single honours LLB degree taught by Worcester Law School and awarded by Staffordshire University will provide you with a study of law, which meets the requirements of the legal profession (the Solicitors Regulation Authority and the Bar Standards Board) to provide exemption from the academic stage of training.

The LLB also provides partial exemption from the academic qualification required by the Chartered Institute of Legal Executives (CILEX). The degree has been designed to encourage you to think critically about the law and to develop your skills in research and communication. It is, therefore, not simply about training students for careers in the legal profession. The LLB is also an excellent qualification for a whole range of careers, including: paralegal, finance, commerce, education, management consultancy, business management and HR roles.

FRAMEWORK

- Contract Law and Problem Solving

This module covers the requirements for a valid contract to be formed and the ways in which contracts can end. Students learn about the remedies which can be provided by the courts and the application of the law to various situations.

- Torts and Civil Remedies

An introduction to the law relating to civil wrongs including the tort of negligence and the ways in which a claim can be brought to the courts. Students consider the use of various remedies including damages/compensation.

- Law in Society

An introduction to current legal issues and basic legal theories. Students will look at current areas of change in the law and discuss the impact of legal change on society.

- Criminal Law

Students learn about the ways in which citizens are held to be criminally liable and the requirements for the state to bring a charge against a person. Different crimes and their elements and the development of the criminal law are considered.

- Constitutional Law

An introduction into the concepts of the Rule of Law, Supremacy of Parliament and Human Rights Law and the interaction between the citizen and the state.

- Administrative Law and Human Rights

Students study the ways in which the power of the state is regulated by statute and how this relates to the rights of citizens. The ways in which Judicial Review can be brought are discussed and students learn how this provides an effective means of redress against the government.

- Law of European Union

Students study the ways in which EU Law impacts upon this country and how it is effectively implemented to ensure compliance with our obligations.

- Property Law and Application

Students will have a broad introduction into the ownership of land and the process for transferral of rights and interests.
